PIG the Athlete

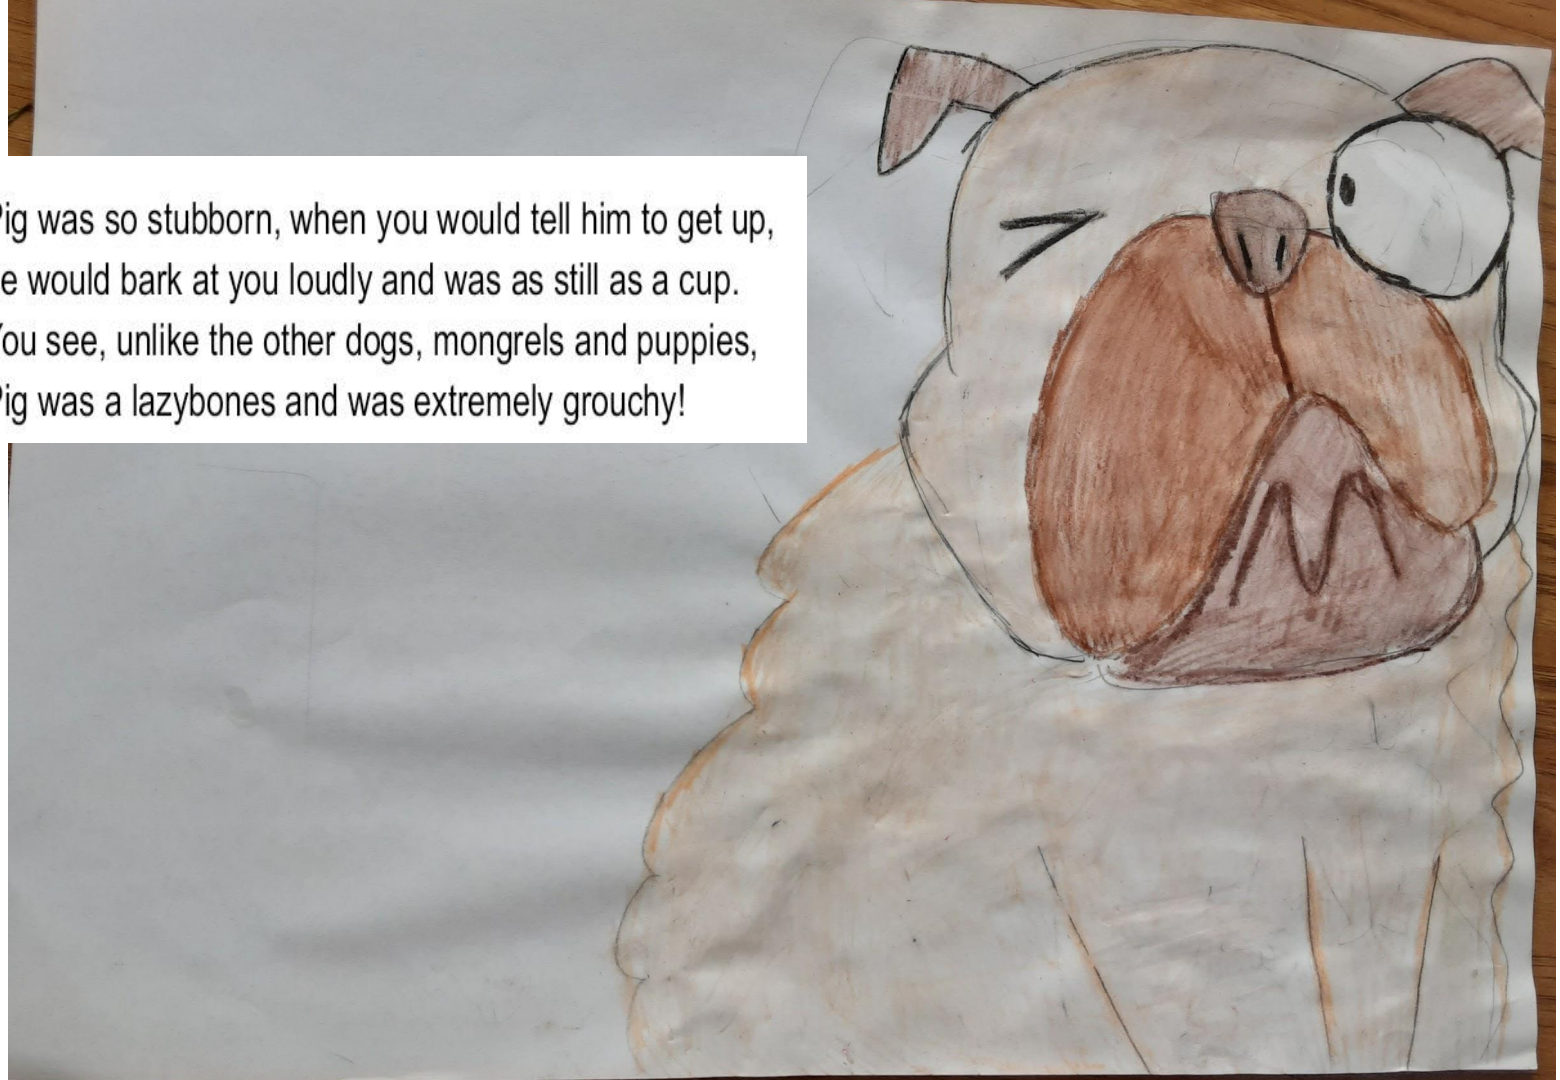
Pig was a Pug and I'm sorry to say, he didn't like to exercise in almost any way.
When you'd ask him for a walk,
he'd growl, groan and grumble!
And when you would tell him to run,
he'd sook, cry, and mumble!



Pig was so stubborn, when you would tell him to get up,
he would bark at you loudly and was as still as a cup.
You see, unlike the other dogs, mongrels and puppies,
Pig was a lazybones and was extremely grouchy!

If you got out a leash, then Pig would run!
He wouldn't go on a walk, it just couldn't be done.
And if you would catch him, (which was quite easy)
he would get into a rage,
and getting him out of it wasn't so breezy!

Pig tore up the yoga mats,
and chewed up walking shoes.
He barked and he went woof,
for that's all he could do.

Pig went CRAZY and no one did know, how to help Pig, whether fast or slow.
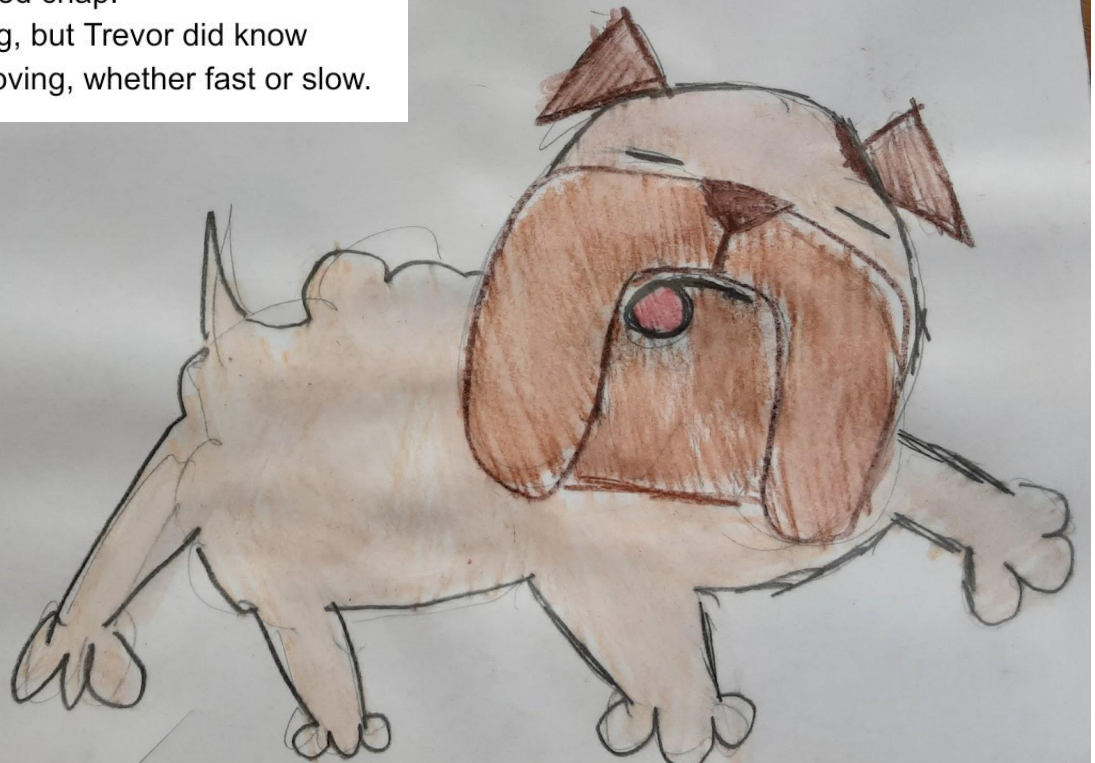
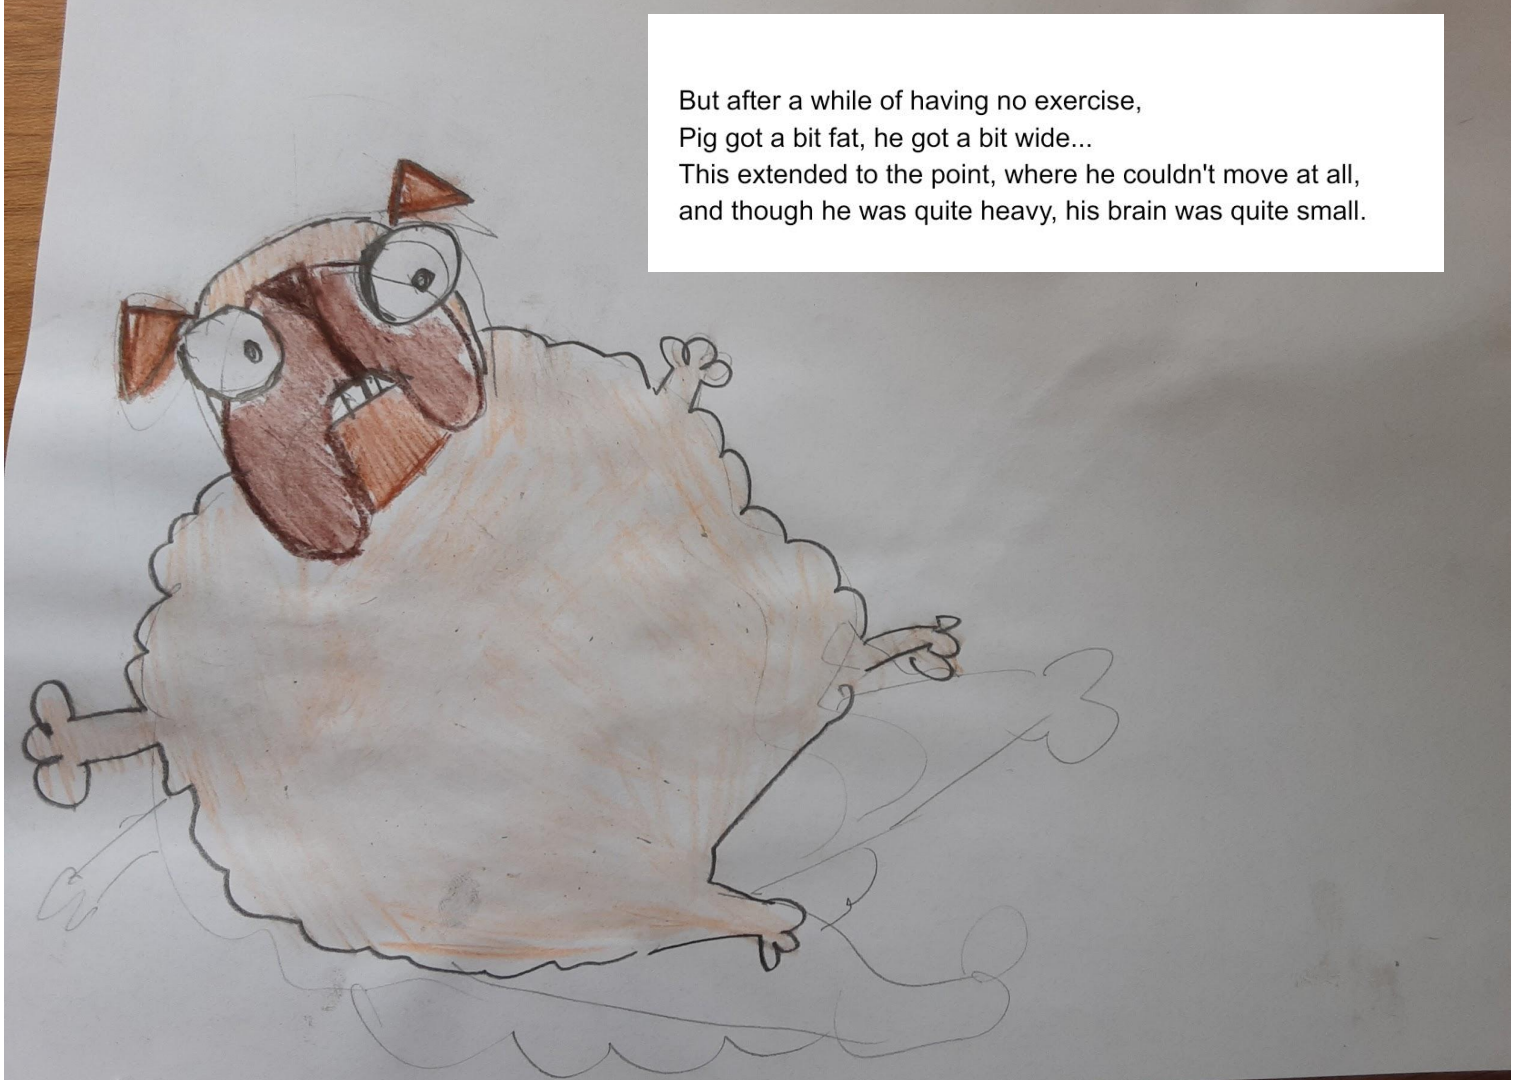
He kicked and he cried,
in anger and spite.
When finally he collapsed with a big bite!

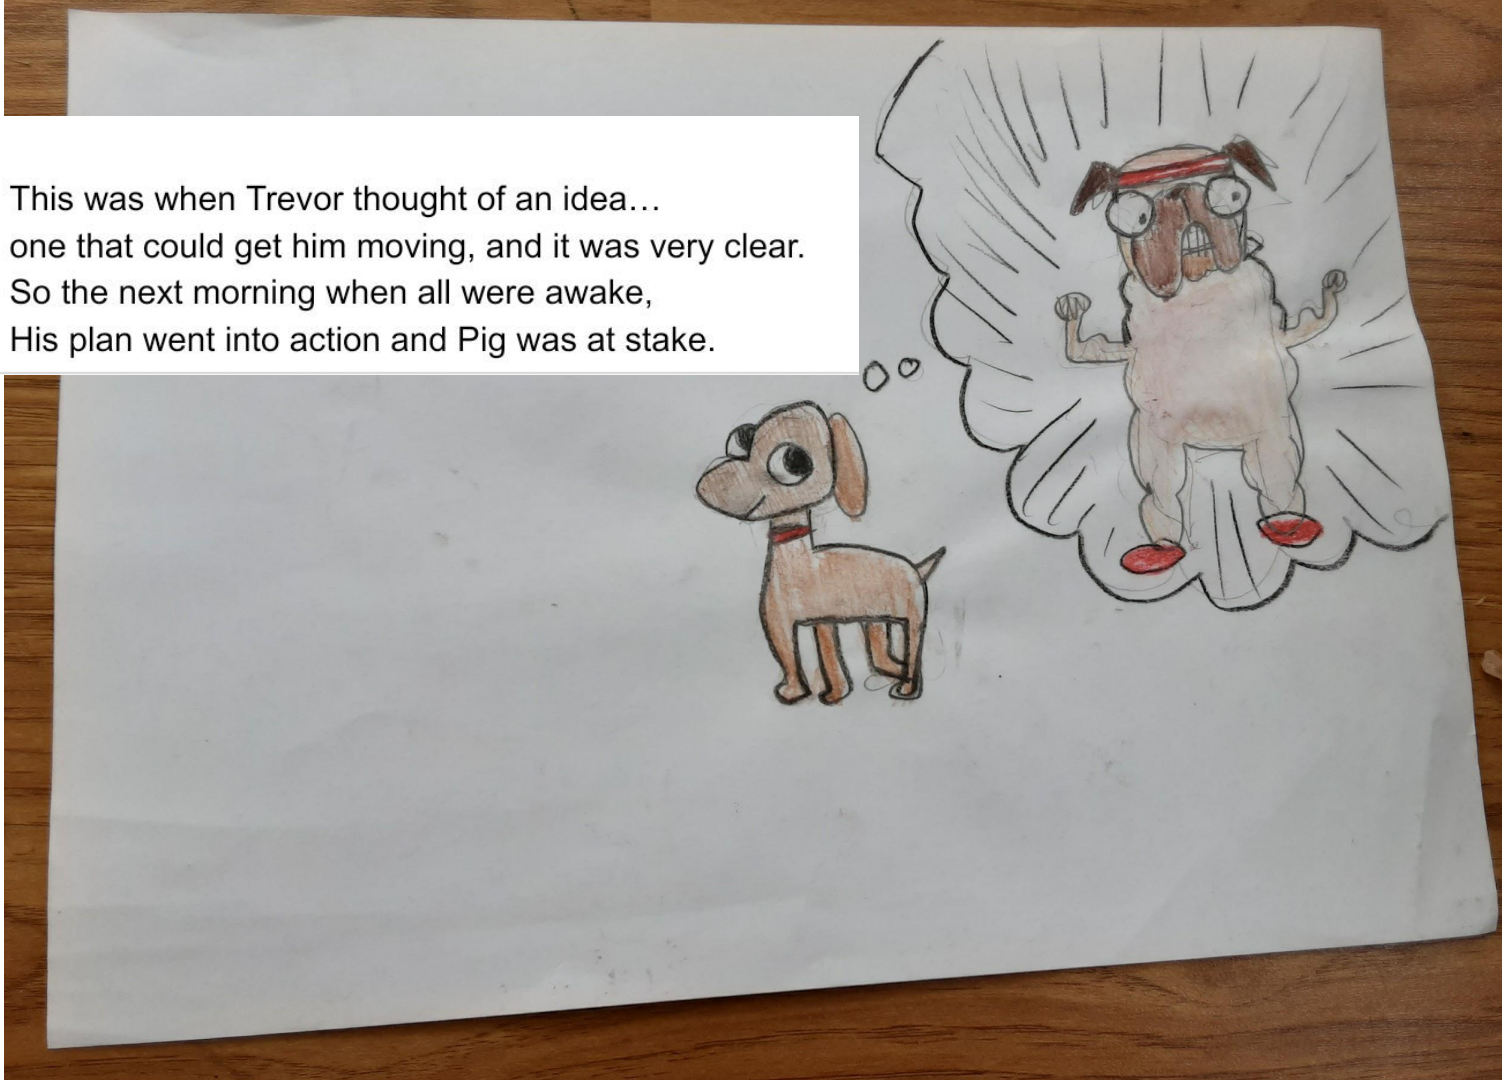
After his tantrum,
which was very big;
Pig went for a nap,
because he was a tired chap.
He lay there snoozing, but Trevor did know
That Pig must get moving, whether fast or slow.





But after a while of having no exercise,
Pig got a bit fat, he got a bit wide...
This extended to the point, where he couldn't move at all,
and though he was quite heavy, his brain was quite small.

This was when Trevor thought of an idea…
one that could get him moving, and it was very clear.
So the next morning when all were awake,
His plan went into action and Pig was at stake.



Trevor picked up Pig's leash and held it at his head,
so when Pig noticed, he got quite scared.
Pig ran around the house, slow as could be,
but Trevor’s plan was working, Pig was exercising!

These days it's different,
I'm happy to say.
After Trevor's idea, Pig is a bit sane.
Because of Trevor's training, Pig is fitter than me.
But he is still quite fat... so he should keep moving!

He couldn’t go on a walk…
it just couldn’t be done!

When Pig, the world’s laziest pug needs to exercise, he throws tantrums EVERYWHERE he goes! Luckily, Trevor has hatched a plan that will keep Pig fit for good!
